John Aires wrote: REACO's web site includes a link at Code Discussion to the Building Code Discussion Group (BCDG). When I logged on to BCDG to participate in the Q&A format, I received a notice to pay a membership fee. Does REACO have a group membership with a log on and password that REACO members can use?

If not, I request that REACO considers doing so. The BCDG site appears to be a good resource for code discussion and technical support with members involved in the code enforcement and design fields. Access to the site would be beneficial to our group.

Tom Garcia will present the CALBO report and share several energy standards CF-1-alt forms.
